

Event Summary

Information Stations

Healthy Foods

- People seemed to feel like they have a lot of options for groceries.
- Folks who I talked to wished it were easier to walk to the market.
- They were very interested in the farmers market and grocery delivery services.

Parks & Recreation

- One issue that I heard several times on Tuesday night was the need for connectivity- lots of folks talked about their enjoyment of walking for exercise, but hoped for improved network of trails/sidewalks in the future.
- Many folks took copies of our Trails Map.

Neighborhood

Networking

- People were interested in finding out when their neighborhood association meets next.
- Both of the N.A. I handed out information for only meet once a year I believe.
- The people agreed there is not a lot of interest from people in their neighborhoods to get involved.
- I had a very nice conversation with a couple from the area that is not in an organized neighborhood association, and would like to be part of one. We talked about how best to do that.
- I also talked to a woman who, along with her husband is a Neighbors on Watch volunteer, and finds it to be a very fulfilling role in her neighborhood/community.

Active Transportation

- What struck me was apparent lack of interest in sidewalks.
- A few people said they didn't need sidewalks.
- The majority of the people who came over, however, did support more sidewalks than is the current situation.
- Several people said that NE 97th Avenue should have sidewalk.

Other Information Resources

- I had some good conversations with people that demonstrate that the emphasis is in the right places.
- One young gentleman I spoke with is getting ready to modify his home to be able to have his grandparents move in with him.
- Another couple was interested in my downsizing services as they want to be 'proactive' in their redistribution of items and not 'leaving it for the kids' to do when they're gone.
- Another woman bought this last home to retire in and plans to do some modifications so she can remain in it the rest of her life.

- They appreciated us being there (CoA as well as our agency)
- Were largely unaware what/how many different services are available
- There were conversations about transportation, affordable housing, long-term services and supports, help at home, caregiver education, long-term care insurance, low cost health and dental services, home health, how to take care of your loved one at home, nutrition services, questions about COPES program and how to access community resources.
